
MAGAZINES

FOR

LIBRARIESTM

THIRTY-FIRST EDITION

Edited by Cheryl LaGuardia

created by

Bill Katz

For the general reader and school, junior college, college, university and public libraries

Reviewing the best publications for all serials collections
since 1969

ProQuest[®]
A stylized graphic element consisting of a thick, black, curved line that starts under the 'P', dips down, and then sweeps up to end under the 't' of ProQuest.

Start here.

Published by ProQuest LLC
Copyright © 2022 by ProQuest LLC
All rights reserved
Printed and bound in the United States of America

International Standard Book Numbers
ISBN 13: 978-1-60030-689-1
International Standard Serial Number 0000-0914
Library of Congress Catalog Card Number 86-640971

No part of this publication may be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by any means, or store in any information storage and retrieval system, without prior written permission of ProQuest LLC, 630 Central Ave., New Providence, NJ 07974

ISBN 978-1-60030-689-1

9 781600 306891

publication is published in Southern Florida, but beyond some community content, its focus is absolutely national in nature. Its content strives to address all family members, with columns such as "Teens Talk," "Community," "Healthy Living," and "Parent Corner." It has coloring pages and puzzles for the youngest, and interviews with teens. Some recent article titles include "Teach Your Children Well, Helping Kids Honor the Other Parent" and "Single Parenting With Chronic Illness." Its content is thoughtful, generous, and very positive. Any public library that addresses the needs of families should be purchasing this title.

- 3744. *Parent & Child: raising smarter, happier families. [ISSN: 1070-0552] 1993. q. Ed(s): Jane Isabel Nussbaum. Scholastic Inc., 557 Broadway, New York, NY 10012; <http://www.scholastic.com>. Adv. Bk. rev.: 3-4, 25 words. Aud.: Ga, Sa.

Parent & Child has an interesting life: first, it is a printed magazine that covers learning issues from birth to about six years, happening to be part of Scholastic's larger web presence, which includes not only this magazine's content. But also, it takes the reader further through middle school. Not surprisingly, Scholastic has collected an advisory board for the magazine that includes several national early-childhood experts. The articles are short and informative, and are intended to bridge a child's preschool learning experience with his or her learning life at home. The magazine presents learning and health issues, behavioral and developmental information, and lots of activities for parents to use at home. All public libraries should consider this magazine; also, learning resource centers at schools that train early-childhood staff should purchase it.

- 3745. *Parents (Print). Former titles (until 1993): Parents' Magazine; (until 1985): Parents; Which incorporated (in 1981): Parents Home; Which was formerly (until 1977): Handy Andy Magazine; (until 1978): Parents' Magazine; (until 1977): Parents' Magazine and Better Homemaking; Parents' & Better Family Living; (until 1973): Parents' Magazine and Better Family Living; (until 1968): Parents' Magazine & Better Homemaking; (until 1959): Parents' Magazine & Family Home Guide; (until 1953): Parents' Magazine; Children; Mother's Magazine; Mother's Activities. [ISSN: 1083-6373] 1926. 2022. m. Dotdash Meredith, 1716 Locust St, Des Moines, IA 50309; partners@dotdash.com; <https://www.dotdashmeredith.com>. Illus., adv. Sample. Indexed: CBRI, PdeR. Bk. rev.: 4-5, 50 words. Aud.: Ga.

Parents has in many ways become the industry standard for parenting magazines. As with many others, its focus tends to be on early-childhood development and health topics rather than on issues associated with older children. There are many regular columns on child development and health, and on maternal and parental health—which are often focused on readers' questions. Feature articles include many short pieces on family life, home style, fun time, and health and safety, to name just a few departments. Highly recommended for any public library that addresses the needs of families.

- 3746. *Twins (Online): the magazine for multiples. 1984. bi-m. Free. Ed(s): Laura Cunningham. Panoptic Media, 142 Mariner Blvd #510, Spring Hill, FL 34609; <http://www.panoptic-media.com/>. Adv. Sample. Bk. rev.: 2-3, 50 words. Aud.: Ga.

Oh, my. Double the joy and double the trials of parenthood! Although there probably isn't a parent of twins (or triplets) who would have it any other way, there's no question that there are particular issues, both logistical and psychological, of handling the children of multiple birth. With fertility technologies increasing in use and sophistication, twinning (and beyond!) is much more common than it once was, so a cheerful, helpful magazine like Twins is welcome. It contains product reviews, feature articles, developmental discussions, and more. Articles are thoughtful, often highly personal discussions of issues and successes. Some recent titles include "The Best of Both Worlds, How Parents of Multiples Run Successful Home-Based Businesses" and "Double Talk, Do Your Twins Speak a Secret Language." Recommended for public libraries.

■ PEACE AND CONFLICT STUDIES

Julia Ezzo, Government Information, Packaging, and Political Science Librarian, Michigan State University, 366 W. Circle Dr., East Lansing, MI 48824; julia@msu.edu

Introduction

Peace and conflict studies is a relatively new field that grew out of the devastating violence of the First World War and gained traction in academia in the decades following World War II. President Woodrow Wilson's Fourteen Points for peacemaking in 1918 laid out many of the same principles for peace that are still accepted by peace scholars to this day, such as disarmament and free trade. With the end of the Second World War and the creation of the United Nations, it became evident to scholars that in order for the United Nations to maintain its mission of promoting international cooperation and peace, rigorous research needed to be done in the areas of peace and conflict resolution.

In 1948, Manchester University in Indiana created the first undergraduate academic program in peace studies in the United States. Similar programs and related courses became more widespread throughout the 1960s due to the Vietnam War and the desire of anti-war undergraduate students to pursue peaceful solutions to violent conflicts. By the 1980s, as the prospect of nuclear apocalypse seemed almost imminent, the number of peace studies courses available at universities worldwide increased dramatically. With the end of the Cold War, peace and conflict studies remained widespread throughout university curricula, but the focus shifted from pre-Cold War emphasis on international conflict to a more comprehensive focus on peace and conflict as it relates to the human condition with a growth in interest related to human rights, gender inequality, human security, democratization, as well as the more traditional aspects related to security issues and conflicts.

While peace and conflict studies grew in academic curricula, peace-related research institutes were founded. The Peace Research Institute Oslo (PRIO) was the first to be created in 1959 and, with it, the creation of the first peace and conflict-focused journal: the Journal of Peace Research. Many other peace research centers were created, such as the Peace Science Society (which publishes the journals Journal of Conflict Resolution and Conflict Management and Peace Science), the International Peace Research Association, and the Peace and Justice Studies Association (which publishes the journal Peace and Change: A Journal of Peace Research), just to name a few.

Peace and conflict studies encompasses a variety of disciplines including international relations, political science, philosophy, gender studies, religious studies, economics, geography, history, anthropology, and psychology. It is also multicultural and examines conflict and relationships at all levels, from interpersonal to international in scope. Researchers apply both theoretical and empirical methods to analyze conflicts and propose peaceful resolutions, while also examining issues related to human rights, marginalization, and ecological degradation, with the goal of promoting sustainable world peace.

This topic is of interest to scholars and laypeople alike and as such, there is a variety of literature available for all levels of expertise. From grassroots organization newsletters to peer-reviewed scholarly articles written by leading experts in the field, there is no shortage of resources for peace and conflict studies and the publications highlighted in this section represent the top resources on this spectrum. These resources provide the latest insights and research in the multifaceted area of peace and conflict studies for researchers, activists, scholars, and policy makers.

Basic Periodicals

Hs: Arms Control Today, Fellowship, Peace Review; Ac: Arms Control Today, Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, Conflict Management and Peace Science, Journal of Conflict Resolution, Journal of Peace Research, Peace & Change, Peace Review.

Basic Abstracts and Indexes

Alternative Press Index, Peace Research Abstracts.

3747. Arms Control Today. Formerly (until 1974): A C A Newsletter. [ISSN: 0196-125X] 1971. 10x/yr. , USD 85 print & online eds., USD 105 print & online eds. Free to members. Ed(s): Terry Atlas. Arms Control Association, 1313 L St, NW, Ste 130, Washington, DC 20005; aca@armscontrol.org; <http://www.armscontrol.org>. Illus., index, adv. Vol. ends: Dec. Microform: PQC. Bk. rev.: 1, 800-1,200 words. Aud.: Ac.

The Arms Control Association, which publishes this magazine, was founded in 1971 and is a national nonpartisan membership organization dedicated to promoting public understanding and support for arms control policies. It helps provide policy makers, the press, and the public with authoritative information, analysis, and commentary on arms control proposals, treaties, negotiations, agreements, and other national security-related issues. This magazine, published ten times a year, is dedicated to promoting a better understanding of arms control subjects and offers comprehensive data and intelligence on national-security issues. Each issue begins with a "Focus" editorial essay that highlights an important issue related to arms control. The "Features" section provides three to four articles per issue written in a jargon-free manner by both scholars and non-scholars alike on a variety of topics related to international arms control and disarmament. Additionally, interviews with important decision makers in the arms control arena are also conducted and well documented in the Q&A section. Issues alternate between a "Book Reviews" section or a "Looking Back" section; the latter is generally essays analyzing the current implications of past events. The "News" section provides brief articles on current events related to arms control. This is an excellent resource for academic libraries and research centers.

3748. Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists (Online). [ISSN: 1938-3282] 1945. bi-m. GBP 247, EUR 332, USD 397. Ed(s): John Mecklin. Routledge, 530 Walnut St, Ste 850, Philadelphia, PA 19106; enquiries@tandfonline.com; <http://www.tandfonline.com>. Adv. Sample. Refereed. Bk. rev.: Number and length vary. Aud.: Ga, Ac, Sa.

Founded by a former Manhattan Project physicist, the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists aims to increase the public's interest in atomic energy and its risks. Since 1945, the Bulletin has stuck to its mission of educating citizens about the dangers of nuclear weapons, and in 1947, the Bulletin created the Doomsday Clock, which has become the universal symbol of the various threats to humanity, including weapons of mass destruction, climate change, and disruptive technologies. Featured articles cover such topics as climate change and rising sea levels, nuclear proliferation, and cybersecurity. The "Nuclear Notebook" column has been published since 1987 and provides an overview of a different country's nuclear capabilities. Issues often have a theme that shapes the content, such as the Treaty of Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons, the potential for the militarization and weaponization of space, or geoengineering. The Bulletin provides refereed articles about nuclear weapons, global security issues, and threats to humanity that are written in an accessible manner for the general public, policy makers, scientists, scholars, and journalists.

3749. Conflict Management and Peace Science. Formerly (until 1980): Journal of Peace Science. [ISSN: 0738-8942] 1973. 6x/yr. , USD 865 (print & online eds.), GBP 468 (print & online eds.), GBP 117, USD 216). Ed(s): Caroline Hartzell. Sage Publications Ltd., 1 Oliver's Yard, 55 City Rd, London, EC1Y 1SP, United Kingdom; market@sagepub.com; <https://www.sagepub.com/>. Illus., adv. Sample. Refereed. Vol. ends: No. 2. Reprint: PSC. Indexed: EconLit. Bk. rev.: 1, 1,200 words. Aud.: Ac.

Conflict Management and Peace Science is a peer-reviewed journal published in association with the Peace Science Society (International) at Pennsylvania State University. It contains scientific papers on topics such as international conflict, arms races, the effect of international trade on political interactions, foreign policy decision making, international mediation, and game theoretic approaches to conflict and cooperation. Along with scholarly articles, this journal also includes a "Data Feature," allowing for scholars to create, share, and discuss a dataset that they created. In addition to the six issues published each year with original articles, "Virtual Special Issues" curate and highlight thematically related articles. These articles are primarily written for a scholarly audience and is most useful in academic and research library collections.

3750. Fellowship. [ISSN: 0014-9810] 1918. q. USD 15. Ed(s): Ethan Vesely-Flad. Fellowship of Reconciliation, 521 N Broadway, PO Box 271, Nyack, NY 10960; for@forusa.org; <http://forusa.org/>. Illus., adv. Microform: PQC. Bk. rev.: 6, 350 words. Aud.: Hs, Ga, Ac.

Fellowship is the oldest continuously published multi-faith, multi-cultural peace journal in the United States. Published quarterly by the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FOR) organization since 1935, it follows its predecessor, The World Tomorrow, which began in 1918. Fellowship publishes analytical insights, spiritual visions, and personal journeys to aid people of all faiths to commit themselves to a nonviolent world of justice, peace, and freedom. A recent issue features articles such as "Transformative Justice: A Brief Description" and "An Aspirational Vision of Life After Fossil Fuels." In addition to articles on both current and historical events, Fellowship also provides interviews, poems, and news briefs to round out its thoughtful approach to encourage conflict resolution through peaceful efforts by all individuals. This publication would be useful in both public and academic libraries.

3751. Global Change, Peace & Security (Print). Former titles (until 2003): Pacifica Review: Peace, Security & Global Change (Print); (until 1994): Interdisciplinary Peace Research (Print). [ISSN: 1478-1158] 1989. 3x/yr. , GBP 725 (print & online eds.), EUR 964 (print & online eds.), USD 1213 (print & online eds.). Ed(s): Aran Martin. Routledge, 4 Park Sq, Milton Park, Abingdon, OX14 4RN, United Kingdom; subscriptions@tandf.co.uk; <https://www.tandfonline.com>. Index, adv. Sample. Refereed. Reprint: PSC. Bk. rev.: Number and length vary. Aud.: Ac.

This international, double-blind, peer-reviewed journal addresses complex practical and theoretical questions related to rapid globalization and its consequences. Taking a multidisciplinary and multifaceted approach, this scholarly journal strives to analyze geopolitics, human security, violence and insecurity, peacekeeping and peacebuilding, as well as ethno-nationalism, environmental degradation, and explore issues related to the contradictions of an increasingly integrated world that is at the same time becoming more fragmented. Articles from recent issues include "Rebuilding peace in exile: bringing together the Women; Peace and Security Agenda and the International Refugee Protection Regime in Turkey"; "Shadow economies: the role of corruption and economic development," and "How have we kept the peace in ASEAN and how can we secure its promise among all peoples in Southeast Asia: preliminary reflections on a humanist paradigm." This journal is a good resource for academic libraries and research centers.

3752. International Peacekeeping. [ISSN: 1353-3312] 1994. 5x/yr. , GBP 727 (print & online eds.), EUR 962 (print & online eds.), USD 1206 (print & online eds.). Ed(s): Nina Wilen. Taylor & Francis, 2, 3 & 4 Park Sq, Milton Park, Abingdon, OX14 4RN, United Kingdom; subscriptions@tandf.co.uk; <https://www.tandfonline.com>. Illus., adv. Sample. Refereed. Vol. ends: Winter. Online: IngentaConnect. Reprint: PSC. Bk. rev.: 4-6. Aud.: Ac.

Founded in 1994, International Peacekeeping was the first scholarly journal to focus on examining peacekeeping activities following the end of the Cold War. This international peer-reviewed journal examines the theory, practice, outcomes, and consequences of peacekeeping operations throughout the world. With an expansive scope, this journal provides analysis and debates regarding peacebuilding and monitoring activities, humanitarian intervention, preventative deployments, sanctions, international policing, and the complex relationships between peacekeepers, civilians, NGOs, rival factions, and state authorities. Recent articles include "Making Peace When the Whole World Has Come to Fight: The Mediation of Internationalized Civil Wars"; "Institutional Choice, Risk, and Control: The G5 Sahel and Conflict Management in the Sahel"; and "Women as the Essential Protectors of Children? Gender and Child Protection in UN Peacekeeping." In addition to scholarly articles, the journal also includes book reviews. This journal is a valuable resource for scholars at academic research institutions who study international relations, peace and conflict, and security and strategic studies.

3753. International Security. [ISSN: 0162-2889] 1976. q. USD 345 (print & online eds.). Ed(s): Steven E Miller, Owen R Cote. MIT Press, One Rogers St, Cambridge, MA 02142-1209; journals-cs@mit.edu; <https://mitpress.mit.edu/>. Illus., adv. Refereed. Indexed: BAS. Aud.: Ac.

International Security has been a peer-reviewed journal with a focus on international security and peacekeeping activities since 1976. Edited at Harvard University's Belfer Center for Science and International Affairs, it provides well-researched analysis of current, theoretical, and historical security issues. Articles provide coherent and timely analysis on topics such as the causes and prevention of war; U.S.-China relations; ethnic conflict and internal war; terrorism and insurgency; Asian, European, and regional security; U.S. foreign and defense policy; nuclear proliferation; international relations theory; diplomatic and military history; and cybersecurity. Articles from the most recent issue include "Pier Competitor: China's Power Position in Global Ports"; "Why Drones Have Not Revolutionized War: The Enduring Hider-Finder Competition in Air Warfare"; and "Soldiers' Dilemma: Foreign Military Training and Liberal Norm Conflict." In addition to research articles, a "Correspondence" section allows international relations scholars to share their thoughts and expert opinions. This journal is vital for academic libraries and research centers that focus on international studies and peace.

3754. The Journal of Conflict Resolution. Formerly (until 1957): Conflict Resolution. [ISSN: 0022-0027] 1957. 10x/yr. USD 2388 (print & online eds.), GBP 1404 (print & online eds.), GBP 351, USD 597. Ed(s): Paul Huth. Sage Publications, Inc., 2455 Teller Rd, Thousand Oaks, CA 91320; info@sagepub.com; http://www.sagepub.com. Illus., index, adv. Refereed. Vol. ends: Dec. Microform: PQC. Online: IngentaConnect. Reprint: PSC. Indexed: B01, BAS, ERIC, EconLit. Aud.: Ac.

This scholarly, interdisciplinary journal focuses primarily on international conflict, while also exploring intergroup conflict and conflict between nations, to help advance the comprehension of issues related to war and peace. Articles frequently come from such disciplines as political science, law, economics, sociology, international relations, history, psychology, anthropology, and methodology to analyze the causes, prevention, and solutions of international, domestic, and interpersonal conflicts. As the official publication for the Peace Science Society (International), it has an editorial board made up of scholars from academic institutions around the world. Each journal consists of six to ten articles that focus on solid measurable facts and lucid arguments to provide scholars and researchers with the latest ideas, approaches, and processes in conflict resolution. In a recent issue, articles include "Due Process and Accountability Under Transitional Justice: Evidence from Mosul, Iraq"; "Citizens and Peace Mediations in Divided Societies: Identifying Zones of Agreement through a Conjoint Survey Experiment"; and "The Dual Effect of COVID-19 on Intergroup Conflict in the Korean Peninsula." In addition to research articles, there is a "Data Set Feature" that provides a review for a new, relevant data set that would be useful to researchers interested in conflict studies. These reviews highlight the data set's major features, describe patterns and new trends that can be uncovered, as well as explain the utility for the data set. A recent Data Set Feature was "Introducing the Peacekeeping Mandates (PEMA) Dataset." This journal is an exceptional addition to academic libraries that have a collection focus on peace studies.

3755. Journal of Peace Education. [ISSN: 1740-0201] 2004. 3x/yr. GBP 456 (print & online eds.), EUR 608 (print & online eds.), USD 762 (print & online eds.). Ed(s): Jeannie Lum. Routledge, 4 Park Sq, Milton Park, Abingdon, OX14 4RN, United Kingdom; subscriptions@tandf.co.uk; https://www.tandfonline.com. Adv. Sample. Refereed. Reprint: PSC. Indexed: ERIC. Bk. rev.: Number and length vary. Aud.: Ga, Ac.

The Journal of Peace Education is a peer-reviewed, multidisciplinary and intercultural journal sponsored by the Peace Education Commission of the International Peace Research Association. This journal aims to promote discourse related to all aspects of peace education, including theory, curriculum, and pedagogy. Topics published in this journal include education regarding disarmament, environmental care, cultural diversity, conflict resolution, ecological sustainability, and educational social movements. Articles in a recent issue include "Teaching Palestine on an Israeli university campus: unsettling denial" and "Behind screens: challenges and opportunities of participatory online peace education in Finland." In addition to original articles, this publication also includes book reviews. This journal is a useful resource in peace and conflict studies for academic and research libraries.

3756. Journal of Peace Research. [ISSN: 0022-3433] 1964. q. GBP 315, USD 584, GBP 1260 (print & online eds.), USD 2334 (print & online eds.). Ed(s): Scott Gates. Sage Publications Ltd., 1 Oliver's Yard, 55 City Rd, London, EC1Y 1SP, United Kingdom; market@sagepub.com; https://www.sagepub.com/. Illus., index, adv. Sample. Refereed. Vol. ends: Nov. Reprint: PSC. Indexed: AmHI, CBRI, EconLit. Bk. rev.: 15-20, 150-450 words. Aud.: Ga, Ac.

This quarterly, interdisciplinary and international journal is peer-reviewed and published by the International Peace Research Association. This publication is a member of the Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE) and edited at the Peace Research Institute OSLO (PRIO) by an international editorial committee. First published in 1964 and with authors from more than 50 countries, the Journal of Peace Research primarily focuses on the causes of violence and conflict resolution from a global perspective. Recent articles include "Co-ethnic bias and policing in an electoral authoritarian regime: Experimental evidence from Uganda"; "Retributive or reparative justice? Explaining post-conflict preferences in Kenya"; and "Foreign interests and state repression: Theory and evidence from the Armenian genocide." In addition to the original articles, this journal also includes a "Special Data Feature" section in which scholars review new data sets, as well as data sets that have been updated. Two reviews from the most recent issue consulted are "Introducing the Government-Sponsored Mass Expulsion Dataset" and "Examining the 'age of apology': Insights from the Political Apology database." The timely articles in this journal provide peace researchers with the latest developments in the field of peace studies and is a useful resource for academic libraries and research centers.

3757. Peace & Change: a journal of peace research. [ISSN: 0149-0508] 1972. q. Ed(s): Heather Fryer. Wiley-Blackwell Publishing, Inc., 350 Main St, Malden, MA 02148; http://onlinelibrary.wiley.com. Illus., index, adv. Sample. Refereed. Vol. ends: Oct. Reprint: PSC. Bk. rev.: 3-4, essay length. Aud.: Ga, Ac.

This peer-reviewed, international, and interdisciplinary-focused journal is published on behalf of the Peace History Society and the Peace and Justice Association. Articles in this journal aim to connect peace research, education, and activism through a wide variety of peace-related topics such as peace movements and activism, conflict resolution, nonviolence, internationalism, race and gender issues, cross-cultural studies, economic development, the legacy of imperialism, and the post-Cold War upheaval. Recent articles include "Exploring subjectivities of peace, violence, and power among the youth in Brazil"; "Peace movement responses to Russia's invasion: For limited war and restraints on militarism"; and "Religion and Nonviolent Movements: The Catholic Church's Influence on Chilean Resistance." Following the original research articles are five to six book reviews and a notes section that includes biographical information for the authors. This journal would be useful in an academic library or research center.

3758. Peace and Conflict: journal of peace psychology. [ISSN: 1078-1919] 1995. q. USD 1205 Individuals, USD 176; Members, USD 90. Ed(s): Fathali M Moghaddam. American Psychological Association, 750 First St, NE, Washington, DC 20002; journals@apa.org; http://www.apa.org. Illus., adv. Sample. Refereed. Vol. ends: Dec. Reprint: PSC. Bk. rev.: 4, 500-600 words. Aud.: Ac.

Peace and Conflict: Journal of Peace Psychology publishes empirical, theoretical, clinical, and historical scholarly articles on topics related to peace, conflict, and their interaction at all levels, such as in a community, nationally, and internationally. This journal is published by the American Psychological Association's Division of Peace Psychology and encourages the submission of articles from psychologists and scholars in related disciplines that would help support the ideals of the Division of Peace Psychology while advancing psychological knowledge related to peacebuilding. Articles from the most recent issue include "Psychological functioning during the COVID-19 lockdown: The role of exposure to continuous traumatic stress in conflict-ridden regions"; "Stress and depression as pathways between violent conflict exposure and moral beliefs: Why people sometimes condone 'bad' things"; and "Outgroup aggressors or ingroup deviants? Perceived group boundaries and threats underlying far-right opposition to LGBTQ rights in Serbia." Thematic special issues on timely topics are occasionally published, with the last special issue focusing on peace education. In addition to the research-oriented original articles, book reviews are also included in this publication. This journal would be a useful addition to peace research centers and academic libraries.

3759. Peace Magazine. Formerly (until 1985): Peace Calendar. [ISSN: 0826-9521] 1983. q. CAD 18.9 domestic; CAD 23 United States; CAD 30 elsewhere. Ed(s): Metta Spencer. Canadian Disarmament Information Service (CANDIS), PO Box 248, Toronto, ON M5S 2S7, Canada; http://candis-peace.org/. Illus., index, adv. Sample. Vol. ends: Nov/Dec. Microform: PQC. Bk. rev.: 3-4, 250-600 words. Aud.: Hs, Ga, Ac.

Peace Magazine is published by the Canadian Disarmament Information Service, a group committed to educating the public on all aspects of peace. Published quarterly, this magazine consists of articles, news stories, interviews, reviews of films and books, and letters. Their online site also includes an almost daily talk show called "Project Save the World." The magazine's focus includes peace, disarmament, human rights abuses, weapons of mass destruction, conflict resolution, and political or military affairs. Authors include scholars, journalists, and activists. Articles are written in an approachable manner and can be easily understood by laypersons. Recent articles include "Iran-US Relations: Past and Present" and "Demilitarization: Is It Time for Civilian-Based Defence?" This magazine is only available electronically. This is a good magazine for high school libraries, as well as public and academic libraries.

3760. Peace Research: the Canadian journal of peace and conflict studies. [ISSN: 0008-4697] 1969. 2012. 2014. s-a. CAD 105, CAD 110 (print & online eds.), USD 115, USD 120 (print & online eds.) (Individuals, CAD 65; (Individuals, CAD 70 (print & online eds.)). Ed(s): Anna Snyder, Neil Funk-Unrau. Menno Simons College, 210-102 Portage Ave, Winnipeg, MB R3C 0G2, Canada; <http://www.brandonu.ca/>. Illus., index. Sample. Refereed. Vol. ends: Nov. Microform: PQC. Indexed: MLA-IB. Bk. rev.: 1-2, 500-1,000 words. Aud.: Ga, Ac.

Continuously published since 1969, Peace Research: the Canadian Journal of Peace and Conflict Studies is Canada's oldest peace-related scholarly journal. Published twice a year, this journal focuses on issues of conflict, violence, disarmament, poverty, just peace, and human well-being, with an emphasis toward encouraging peaceful methods for conflict resolution. Articles from the most recent issue include "Applying a Conflict-Sensitive Approach to Development: The Case of Rural Grazing Areas in Nigeria" and "Restorative Justice and the Yaqui Nation of Southern California." This publication is a valuable addition to peace research centers and academic libraries.

3761. Peace Review: a journal of social justice. [ISSN: 1040-2659] 1989. q. GBP 807 (print & online eds.), EUR 1067 (print & online eds.), USD 1335 (print & online eds.). Ed(s): Robert Elias. Routledge, 4 Park Sq, Milton Park, Abingdon, OX14 4RN, United Kingdom; subscriptions@tandf.co.uk; <https://www.tandfonline.com>. Illus., adv. Sample. Refereed. Online: IngentaConnect. Reprint: PSC. Indexed: MLA-IB. Bk. rev.: 2-3, 1,000-1,500 words. Aud.: Ga, Ac.

This quarterly journal is a multidisciplinary, international publication that focuses on current issues that affect the pursuit of a peaceful world. Peace Review explores peace in a broad sense to include aspects related to human rights, development, ecology, culture, and conflict resolution. Issues tend to revolve around a central theme, such as teaching peace education, though articles outside of this topic may also be published in that issue. A recent thematic focus was on suicide, with articles including "Boko Haram, Women, and Suicide Bombing in the Lake Chad Region" and "Suicide, Shocks, and Resilience in (Post)Conflict Bangsamoro." This publication also includes book reviews and a recommended films section. This journal is a good addition to collections in peace research centers and academic libraries.

3762. Security Dialogue. Formerly (until 1992): Bulletin of Peace Proposals. [ISSN: 0967-0106] 1970. bi-m. USD 1843 (print & online eds.), GBP 998 (print & online eds.), GBP 250, USD 461. Ed(s): Mark B Salter. Sage Publications Ltd., 1 Oliver's Yard, 55 City Rd, London, EC1Y 1SP, United Kingdom; market@sagepub.com; <https://www.sagepub.com/>. Illus., index, adv. Sample. Refereed. Microform: PQC. Online: IngentaConnect. Reprint: PSC. Indexed: BAS. Aud.: Ac.

This bi-monthly, peer-reviewed international journal focuses on global peace and security. Articles present provocative new theories and insights based on empirical findings on topics like new and traditional security issues, such as globalization, nationalism, ethnic conflict and civil war, information technology, biological and chemical warfare, resource conflicts, pandemics, global terrorism, non-state actors and environmental and human security are encouraged in this publication. Multidisciplinary in its scope, this journal publishes articles by scholars from disciplines such as international studies, gender studies, political sociology, political economy, geography, cultural studies, political theory, anthropology, development studies, postcolonial studies, and peace and conflict studies. Recent articles include "Peace that antagonizes: Reading Colombia's peace process as hegemonic crisis" and "Resettling Afghan and Iraqi interpreters employed by Western armies: The Contradictions of the Migration-Security Nexus." This is a leading journal for scholars interested in security studies and would be a valuable addition to academic libraries and research centers.

■ PETS

Associations

See also Animal Welfare; Birds; Horses; Sports; and Veterinary Science sections.

Camille McCutcheon, Coordinator of Collection Management and Administrative Services, University of South Carolina Upstate, 800 University Way, Spartanburg, SC 29303; RCMcCutc@uscupstate.edu

Introduction

Most pet magazines, such as AKC Family Dog, Catster Magazine, Reptiles, and Tropical Fish Hobbyist, focus exclusively on either dogs, cats, reptiles, or fish. Many of the magazines in this section commonly feature articles on health, wellness, nutrition, care, welfare, behavior, communication, grooming, training, advocacy and rescue, and the human-animal bond, as well as heartwarming stories of actual animals.

During the past several years, there has been an increase in the number of titles that publish articles on natural care, nutrition, and holistic medicine. The focus of Animal Wellness Magazine and The Whole Dog Journal is on natural health care. Other publications provide medical information for pet owners. The Cummings School of Veterinary Medicine at Tufts University publishes Catnip and Your Dog, and the Cornell University College of Veterinary Medicine publishes CatWatch and DogWatch, which are newsletters that provide medical, health, and behavioral information on cats and dogs.

Many of the publications noted in this section actively engage their readers using social media and Facebook. Most have websites where visitors can locate subscription information, scan the tables of contents, and view photographs of the covers of the current issues. Other sites are more extensive and allow visitors to read selected articles from current and previous issues, participate in online forums, and pose questions to veterinarians and other pet experts.

Basic Periodicals

Hs: Catster Magazine, Dogster Magazine; Ga: AFA Watchbird, AKC Family Dog, Best Friends, Catster Magazine, Dogster Magazine, Modern Cat, Modern Dog, Reptiles, Tropical Fish Hobbyist; Ac: Amazonas, Anthrozoos, Coral.

Basic Abstracts and Indexes

Academic Search Complete.

3763. AFA Watchbird: journal of the American Federation of Aviculture. [ISSN: 0199-543X] 1974. 3x/yr. USD 40. American Federation of Aviculture, PO Box 91717, Austin, TX 78709; afaoffice@earthlink.net; <http://www.afabirds.org/>. Illus., adv. Vol. ends: Nov/Dec. Aud.: Hs, Ga, Ac.

AFA Watchbird is the official publication of the American Federation of Aviculture. The AFA is dedicated to "represent[ing] all aspects of aviculture and to educat[ing] the public about keeping and breeding birds in captivity." The magazine's color photography is beautiful. The articles are detailed and informative, and some of them contain a list of references. Contributors include aviculturists, veterinarians, avian scientists, and avian biologists. Featured are profiles of bird species, as well as articles on conservation, bird breeding, the health and welfare of birds, legislative issues that affect aviculture and aviculturists, and the activities of the AFA. The website for the American Federation of Aviculture contains general information about the magazine. Back issues of AFA Watchbird dating back to 1974 are accessible from the website. Recommended for academic and large public library collections.